

ABSTRACT

The present invention is applied to an imaging device for recording, for example, a result of imaging on an 5 optical disc by a QuickTime file format and forms an real data block by allocating management information for managing a specific region recorded by interleave processing, and the specific region is managed by the management information and a management information block.